Target: 560 Free Parking Stalls By Dec. 1

By John Weber

The OU Board of Regents voted an early "Christmas present" for parking-plagued students Tuesday afternoon. However, some students may feel instead that the "gift" was a "trick" left over from Halloween.

The "gift" or "trick" is a new free student parking lot with 560 spaces. December 1 is the target date for opening, "provided the weather is in our favor," stated Vice-president George Rachford.

The Regents also approved the expansion of Parking Lot A (for faculty east of the Ad building) from the current 55 to 102 spaces.

The location of the student lot, which was a troublesome decision to make, will be the present athletic practice field. At one time the field served as a parking lot.

"With reluctance, the Board of Regents and the Administration decided to take the athletic field for parking," said OU President Leland Traywick.

"We are exploring all the possible substitutes for the athletic field," he added. (He noted that the timing on the decision may appear bad, but emphasized that the decision in no way reflects the current football season.)

The real issue at stake is the matter of space on a crowded campus that out of necessity will become even more crowded in the not-too-distant future.

"The Regents considered extending Parking Lot R (northwest of Engineering building) to the east. But we will probably have to add temporary buildings to the campus next year," Dr. Traywick and Dr. Rachford jointly.

The immediate space problem boiled down to campus parking and sites for temporary buildings.

It was decided to be more practical to place the structures east of Temporary A and B (which are becoming more permanent each day) and use the practice field for parking (instead of Lot R, the earlier proposal mentioned in The Gateway three weeks ago).

About $75,000 will be spent to reconvert the field into a student lot. Concrete curbs and islands will be poured and a gravel surface laid.

After the gravel settles (sometime next summer), asphalt will be spread and the inevitable forest of meters will bloom.

"Those who use the parking facilities should pay for them. Chances are that we will be plagued with meters for the Crowd Turnout For Parent's Day Is A Big Success

A Parent's Day crowd of over 2,300 was on hand last Saturday to cheer OU's football team to victory.

Although the team was not as successful as had been hoped, Parent's Day definitely was.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart J. Sedlak were the OU Parents of the day. The Sedlaks sat with President and Mrs. Traywick in the President's box. The parents of the day were drawn at a TGIF dance held Oct. 21. Their son, David Sedlak, is a sophomore majoring in business at OU.

After shivering in the 60-degree temperatures at the game, parents were invited to a reception held in the Milo Bail Student Center ballroom.

Over 150 parents attended the reception. Cards, which were available at the door, were filled out and dropped into a box for a drawing. The prize, a new clock radio, was won by Mrs. Allen Wotherspoon.

The Banner Contest winners were announced at the reception. First place and a prize of fifteen dollars went to Alpha Xi Delta. Three second place prizes of five dollars each went to Chi Omega, Pi Kappa Alpha, and the O-Club. Contest rules set a size limit of 4 x 12 feet. However, the judges gave a special ten-dollar award to Theta Chi for their banner which measured over 60 feet.

Parent's Day chairman Kathy Wybenga said she was "very happy" with the turnout. The other Parent's Day committee members were Randy Owens and Tom Fischer.

Indian Dancers and Skydivers Included In Homecoming Plans

The "Happenings" will be the featured combo at the Homecoming Dance next Friday at Peony Park.

Student Center Director, Fred Ray, made the announcement during the Wednesday meeting of the Student Council. Ray said the final arrangements were made that afternoon.

The "Happenings" replace the "Association" who broke Homecoming arrangements to play on the Andy William's Show. Ray added they have made plans to have the "Association" play a two-hour concert at the university sometime in January or February.

The "Happenings" have two top records on the market. They are: "Go Away Little Girl" and "See You In September."

Chairman of the Homecoming activities, Pam Adams, announced plans for the All-Star intramural game to be played between 1:30 and 3:00 next Friday in the Pep Bowl.

Mr. Ray said that three university students volunteered to skydive into the Pep Bowl before the pep rally and crowning of the Princess at 5:30. Other activities for the day include a sock-hop, lunch and dancing by the Abamo Society of Indian Dancers.

Council member Doug Slaughter reminded that classes will be dismissed at 11:30 for the activities.

And finally, Council President Jim Butler swore in newly elected Council members. They are: Bob Gilmore, Denny Jorgensen, Connie Stillwell and Sally Vadel. All are freshmen.

Money Problems Facing New Africa

By Clarence Wilson

The Institute of World Affairs provided a treat Oct. 31 as it presented its fifth speaker, George Loft.

Loft, vice-president of the African-American Institute in New York was tricked by OU students because the number of them present could have been counted on one hand.

Loft has spent ten years involved with Africa and with Africans problems which, he stated, seemed to revolve around the unpreparedness of the Africans at independence.

"Just fifteen years ago there were only four independent African nations, by 1960 there were 17, and since 1960 18 more were added, making 39 independent countries with an average age of 5 1/2 years."

According to Loft, the economic revolution in Africa is the most difficult problem Africa faces.

However, Loft says, "There are enough mature, impressive leaders who, given time, will get the job done."

'Fabulous Homecoming' Spotlights OU Alumni

By Robyn Carmichael

It's the "Most Fabulous Homecoming in OU History," and the red carpet will be rolled out for all alumni when the Indians kick off a 2 p.m. contest against Ft. Hays next Saturday in the Omaha University Stadium.

Depending upon which they can use most, each alum attending the game will receive either an OU cowboy hat or a bright red OU scarf. To make bleacher-sitting more bearable, they will each get a comfortable seat cushion.

Alumni belonging to a social or service organization on campus can sign up in the Student Center at 4:30 p.m. and go up to the Ballroom for coffee after the game. The sorority or fraternity having the largest number of alumni sign up will receive a $25 cash award from the Alumni Association. Runner-up will receive $15.

Big event of the day will be the dinner dance at the Prom Town House. The Don Rice Combo will provide entertainment and the Alumni Association will announce the winners of door prizes.

Seven lucky alums will drive away with new Chevrolets, theirs to use for one week, others will fly down to Mountain Shadows Resort for a weekend in Arizona. A trip to the "Mile High City" of Denver will also be awarded, the winners staying in the Cosmopolitan Hotel and enjoying an evening on the town.

KOWH Radio is donating several six-transistor radios to homecoming grads and many of Omaha's finest eating places and department stores are donating gift certificates.

To win any of these prizes, alums can buy tickets in a packet for $9.95, a price which includes admission to the game and dinner-dance for two. Dinner-dance tickets alone run $7.50 per couple. Stubs are filled out on the tickets and used as chances for the prizes.

Alums are urged to write The Alumni Office, University of Omaha, and send either check, money order or cash. They can pick up their tickets in the Alumni Office, Room 232 of the Student Center, from Wednesday through Friday from 8-4:30 p.m. or on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Editorially Speaking

Aesthete, Athlete, Yields To Concrete

When the local media broke the news of the increased campus parking—at the expense of the athletic field—one student immediately penned an angry letter to the Gateway. (See "Letters To The Editor".)

The letter took a flat-of-the-blade swipe at the administration, making a tongue-in-cheek reference to the "intelligent leaders" of the university.

It went on to make a mock-serious proposal that the lawn in front of the Administration Building be bulldozed into additional parking facilities, then seemed to chuckle at the outlandishness of the suggestion.

Is it completely outlandish? Not really.

The temporary buildings "gracing" the area north of the Engineering Building hardly enhance "the graceful serenity of this beautiful land". And more appear to be on the way.

That area was bypassed as additional parking space because more of the so-called temporary buildings seem inevitable in the not-too-distant future.

Where else is there to go? The administration is all but hamstrung by the unexpandable boundaries of the university.

Something has to give. The aesthetes will have to reconcile themselves to the fact that the beauties of nature take a back seat to practicality. Our campus seems doomed to fall before the ravages of progress.

As for athletics, no one is "being kicked while they're down". Win, lose or draw, the football team is not being chastised. The baseball team is not being sent to the showers. Athletics are not being "phased out" at OU.

President Traywick says that off-campus facilities will be found for the baseball teams and any other groups having need of a practice field.

Finally, the letter-writer compared OU to other universities. She stated that Creighton University doesn't "feel it owes the students abundant parking spaces." Nor do other universities around the country.

Don't they? Perhaps not, but, be that as it may, it is irrelevant. Do we have to follow the lead of other universities? It's about time someone did some independent thinking.

Letters To The Editor

"Wise Leaders" Take Athletic Field

Dear Editor,

How shocking it is to come to the realization that after four years of college I am unable to comprehend even the most simple of things.

I have been living in a dream world, a fantasy world. I have been under the apparently false impression that the purpose of a university was to educate. But the air has been let out of my balloon. I now must come back to reality.

The regents, prodded by the administration of this "institution of higher learning," are more concerned with parking lots.

Meeting in special session Tuesday, the board issued its decree—the practice field directly west of the Field House in the not too distant future is to become another parking lot.

This field is used by both the football and baseball teams, the band and Indians. And, believe it or not, it is also used for classes. Several physical education activity classes use that field as their classroom.

People may say, "So what about the football team; they're losing anyway." To these I say: Have you chosen to forget Al Caniglia's 35 win, 26 loss, 2 tie record for the past seven years?

Or doesn't past performance matter? That's right; kick 'em when they're down!

Then there's the baseball team, which, I might add, is consistently a winner. It's also a nationally ranked team.

Oh, but we need more parking spaces. Would someone who is wiser please explain to me why the university is obligated to provide parking spaces? Granted, the lots are congested during peak periods.

But many places remain to be had before 8 a.m. People can't have their cake and eat it too. If parking your car on campus means so much, if it's that necessary to have that convenience, then get your bodies out of the cozy warmth of your beds a little earlier.

However, if the intelligent leaders of the university deem it necessary to increase parking spaces, there is an alternative: Why not use the lawn in front of the Administration building. Goodness gracious! Wreck the graceful serenity of this beautiful land? Yes, if parking lots are that important. That land will never be used for more classrooms; there is no need to worry about spending money to build a parking lot and then having to tear it up at a later date for more classrooms.

If the regents had decided to use the practice field for more classrooms, there would be no just grounds for criticism. But they didn't.

Ponder over this one, too. There is another university in this city. It's called Creighton University. Its administration doesn't feel it owes the students abundant parking spaces. And on the national scene—what other universities take the attitude our "wise leaders" have taken?

We Finally Stumped Them!

Dear Editor,

Gateway readers were invited to Stump The Philosophers; one reader has. Lonnie D. Schaffroth, Jr. submits the following question: What compels a person to engage in the sport of skydiving?

With profound humility we submit this question to Gateway readers for their learned consideration and analysis.

In a more serious vein, it does not seem to us that anyone is compelled to sky dive. Although we all agree that, for our part, engaging in skydiving would have to be by compulsion.

Greeks Are One Step Ahead

Dear Editor,

Every semester, after every election, a few Independents, knowing all too little about what is really "going on," complain about the Greek supremacy on campus.

Thank you, Editor, for clarifying your stand concerning Independent-Greek relationships. We Greeks DO NOT disdain any Independent; they make up a vital part of the University activity. But as you brought out in your editorial, they should be incited to take a more active interest.

Granted, the Greeks have organization, and this is what puts them one step ahead of the Independents. But, they also have ambition, drive, and initiative, which is more than I can say for the four people who wrote to you last week who can only criticize (not constructively) without taking the slightest bit of effort to DO SOMETHING about a seemingly uncalled for situation.

Those four people, who condemned election activities, Student Council activities, and everything else which doesn't appeal to them, show nothing but the ability to gripe. If they wish to know exactly what Student Council is doing, let them attend our meetings, which are open to any student. If they have any pertinent suggestions, let them drop them in the Student Council Suggestion Box.

And, if they feel so moved, let them run for Student Council like Independent Denny Jorgensen. He proved that an Independent who WANTS to be on Council, CAN. He is one of a minority of Independents who show ambition and initiative. He really came through, not only for himself, but for the entire Independent Body.

Those four people should be very proud of Denny, not to mention grateful that some Independent did what they couldn't. It will be a pleasure to serve with Denny this year, as his vigorous campaign, conducted in a polite and spirited manner, proves what a fine person he is, and what a worker he will be.

In closing, I would like to say that Student Council will welcome—with open minds—any suggestions from the Student Body. We are doing our best, not merely for the Greeks, but for the ENTIRE student body.

Letters To The Editor

Let Football Support Arts

Dear Editor,

I am a transfer student from out of state. I went to a small college of around 3,000 students. This school has had a decent to excellent football team for a good number of years.

The school received a large source of revenue from the team. With the money brought in, the school would pay for the entire cost of the game, traveling expenses, food and maintenance of the field and so forth.

With the surplus money, they would give the different departments money needed to obtain any equipment needed to keep up with today's need.

Football and the arts were equal on this campus, as they allowed a large sum to the band department and to the Choral department. With this realistic budget the choir and band was able to buy good quality music, to obtain new uniforms for the increasing numbers, and allowed them to go on tours of the state exchanging culture by giving and listening to concerts.

From what available knowledge I have, Omaha University doesn't do these things. It seems as if our football teams have been a burden on our budget.

It also seems that Omaha University is only giving the band and choir a token budget. Both these departments need and want good quality music, along with some new uniforms to keep up with increasing numbers.

I would like to see the figures of income from our football team. If we even have any net income. Why not redistribute this money, or any money to the departments that could use it to move ahead in the field of arts?

A lover of money.

Why Vote For Puppets?

Dear Editor,

How can you attempt to stimulate interest in electing a slate of student officers who are merely puppets for the administration? College students across the nation are tired of electing sand box student governments that couldn't represent them if they wanted to.

How far would the present student government get if it tried to represent the majority of the students on a real issue such as parking meters or compulsory class attendance?

Where are the students constitution and bill of rights at this free(?) university? When you find these things you will also find that the seemingly apathetic students are just tired of being fooled and spoon fed like a child.

Howard John Shine

A Cheer Is A Cheer

Dear Editor,

Even though Omaha University's football team is not having a winning season, it is still getting support from several organizations.

It should be pointed out now that winning isn't everything. And the few solid supporters of the football team should be commended. Along with the regular fans, there has been support from the Greeks, Ipmaoes, Indiannes and other organizations.

There is one group of supporters that is often overlooked, that being Omaha University's band, under the leadership of Mr. Jack Malik. Their loyalty to our team and school is shown through the pre-game and half-time entertainment. But more important is the enthusiasm they have when their performance is over, not only with their instruments, but with vocal contributions.

It should be noted that if the different organizations on campus would quit fighting about who does the most supporting for our team, and join together, then the school might get some spirit. When you hear cheering at a football team, there is little difference between a Greek's yelling and an independent's yelling. 'OUampi'

"The Objectivist"

Dear Editor,

Patricia Parker's question about the philosophical basis that philosophy offers answers to life and it's problems symbolizes the kind of contempt that predominant contemporary and traditional philosophies deserve, and therefore, cannot answer. This was amply demonstrated by the evasion Miss Parker was offered for an answer.

To say that physicians answer questions about disease, botanists about plants, mechanics about cars and therefore philosophers answer questions about life and it's problems does not show that he does.

In fact, all predominantly influential modern and ancient philosophies have failed to significantly contribute to the intelligibility of the universe and man's place in it, with one glaring exception.

That exception is Aristotle's formulation of the three laws of thought; the law of identity, the law of non-contradiction and the law of the excluded middle.

When St. Thomas Aquinas established the validity of Aristotle's laws of thought as they apply to the study of physical nature the result was the Renaissance and the subsequent explosion of human knowledge and efficacy in dealing with that area of reality.

For an introduction to a philosophy which consistently applies Aristotle's principles of logic to the study of human nature and moral values and is the fountainhead of the forthcoming renaissance in the spiritual sciences, I suggest that those who honestly seek an answer to Miss Parker's question read a series of articles entitled "An Introduction To Objectivist Epistemology" by Ayn Rand, a part of which appears in the Eugene Eppeley Library's copies of "The Objectivist."

It is my awareness of this philosophy that enables me to dare make the claim that philosophy can offer absolute, logically validated answers, not a panacea to the questions. What exist? How does one know? And so what?

Double Jinxs Trouble Albin

By John Prescott

So you think you've got troubles!

Richard Albin of the speech department has had his share in pairs.

At 23, Albin's career was going very nicely, having received his B.A. from Arkansas U and gone on to earn his M.A. in Speech and Drama at Eastern New Mexico U. and began teaching at OU this year.

Shortly thereafter he received a letter from the government in the morning mail, a new draft card with a 1-A draft classification.

Most people who heard Albin's bad news found it very hard to believe. The teacher shortage crisis is at an all-time high.

Short Of Teachers

Headlines around the country reading "Minneapolis 110 Teachers Short" and "New York To Need 7,000 Teachers By Fall" are focusing in on the problem.

The draft board normally recognizes the problem and therefore places teachers low on the eligibility lists.

Later on the same day, Albin received a phone call from his father in Springfield, Missouri, informing him that he was holding a letter containing Albin's instructions for his primary induction physical.

What's Going On?

At this point Albin decided that it was time to find out exactly what was going on.

He contacted his draft board and asked if a mistake had been made. The draft board assured him that they would look into the matter and contact him in about a week.

The next week, while awaiting a reply, Albin's car was stolen in broad daylight.

The entire situation has now been resolved. The draft board informed Albin that he has definitely been deferred and his abandoned car has been returned to him by the Police Department.

Corinthians Inform Grads

The Corinthian Society has made available Graduate Studies information.

They believe that in the past, students have given up ideas of continuing their studies because they did not know how to apply, or were worried about financial aid.

There are several ways that information may be secured. First, a direct letter to the dean of their particular graduate school. Second, there are catalogs of the schools in the Eppeley Library, the Registrar's Office and in the Graduate Office, Ad. 203.

Consult Profs

Third, consult OU professors in the field. Fourth, examine the many special announcements of programs and grants circulated annually by the graduate schools. Also, there are many books available on the subject.

The University of Omaha offers thirteen majors in the Graduate Studies College. Available under a Masters of Arts degree are biology, education, English, history, psychology, sociology, general science and special education degrees.

Majors Vary

The Masters of Science degree has majors in education, educational psychology, industrial psychology, applied sociology and special education.

Milton On The Loose

Dear Diary, Dreary Day

By J. C. Milton

The following is an excerpt from the diary of Ernie Fernbaugh sent to me by a correspondent from another university. Needless to say, such goings-on could never happen to a student at Omaha U. and any resemblance is purely coincidental.

Monday, Oct. 6 — fair and cloudy with a 50-50 chance of rain.

7:00 Got up. Didn't recognize image in bathroom mirror.

7:01 Went back to bed.

7:30 Tried to remember what happened last night.

8:30 Remembered.

8:31 Tried to forget what happened last night.

9:00 Got up and fixed usual hangover remedy . . . four Alka-Seltzers (sic) in a cup of coffee. (Oh, I wouldn't say the music was loud last night at the Sodom and Gomorrah a-go-go, but that's the first time I've seen guitars with cotton in their ears.)

10:30 Drove out to school and tried to find a parking place.

12:45 Found one . . . I parked on the football field and taped a quarter to my windshield.

Burning Books

1:00 Passed a group of irate students burning books and other things. (Luckily Professor Feeny escaped with minor burns and melted bifocals. I think the excuse the students gave that they mistook Prof. Feeny for a book-end is pretty shabby and probably will fool no one except maybe Mrs. Feeny.)

1:30 Arrived for my Psychology, Anthropology, and all-around Hygiene class. Asked the teacher if I could get a drink. He said O.K.

2:15 Got back to class. Teacher asked where I had been. "I thought you just went out for a drink?" he said. "I did," says I, "but I had to go to six different bars before I found one that didn't check I.D.'s"

2:30 Had a heart-to-heart talk with the Dean.

3:00 Bought lunch at school cafeteria.

3:10 Went to nurse's office to have stomach pumped.

3:30 to 6:00 A complete blank.

6:00 Lit Benson and Hedges 100.

6:30 Finished Benson and Hedges 100.

7:00 Ate supper at Red Chinese restaurant . . . One hour later I was hungry for world recognition.

LSD Party

8:00 Attended an LSD party . . . account of which follows. We all had the same hallucination, to wit, we were attacked by a bunch of naked gypsies.

"We're being attacked by a bunch of naked gypsies," somebody said.

"They are naked all right," I replied "but how do you know they are gypsies?"

"Cause one of 'em's got a violin," said Gwendolynn.

"No," Harriet "Peaches" Stowe said, "that's no good . . . how about: 'cause one of 'em's got a ring in his navel?"

Leroy laughed. "Not bad . . . but it still lacks punch. Hit me with the straight line again."

They're Naked, All Right

"They're naked all right, but how do you know they're gypsies?" obliged "Peaches."

"Cause one of 'em's stealing my chicken," replied Leroy. I thought for sure that would win it, but Alfie Benton cut short any further argument.

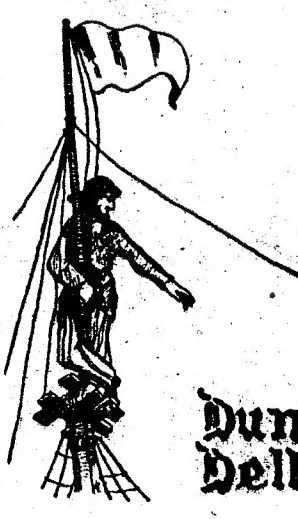

"You'll never get away with it," he said. "They're organized now . . . won't tolerate any of that rough stuff. Sure, you can get away with a violin and an earring now and then . . . even a campfire dance . . . but lay off that stealing stuff or they'll sick (sic) the national association for the advancement of gypsy people on us."

Waldo then make a motion that it read thusly: "They're naked all right, but how do you know they're gypsies?" — "Cause one of 'em's reading my palm." And after a 4-3 vote it was so moved and carried and written as such in the ship's log.

1:00 a.m. Took "Peaches" home.

2:00 a.m. And so to bed.

Well, it's like they say: you can get a degree at Omaha U, but if you go anywhere else you'll get an education.

OU vs Emporia-Coach Says: 'This May Be Our Game'

By Dan Parker

Coach Keith Caywood's Emporia State Hornets will play host to the Omaha U Indians in the Saturday afternoon clash in Emporia.

"This may be our ball game. We have not lost to Emporia since we joined the CIC in 1959," said Coach Carl Meyers.

Meyers scouted the Emporia-Pittsburg State game last week won by Emporia 27-20. The Hornets stand at 2-5. Emporia also beat Washburn 7-0 in an earlier contest.

The offensive set-ups used by Emporia are a tight-slot formation and an unbalanced backfield. "These formations were not anticipated. In the past, Emporia has run a strictly pro-type offense, throwing the ball a lot. The shift came as a surprise to us," said Meyers.

Injuries Hit Emporia

As a team racked by injuries, Emporia has a hard running fullback. Averaging nearly three yards per carry against Pittsburg State, Jerry Borka is a 5'11", 180-pound fullback from Kansas City. "He was their big back last week," Meyers added.

The quarterback is Ron Moddemog, a 5'10", 170-pound sophomore. The Hornet signal caller hit three of five passes for 29 yards against Pittsburg State.

Moddemog's receivers are end Dean Woodson (6'1", 190 pounds) and halfback Bob Hick (5'11", 180 pounds). These men were Emporia's only receivers against Pittsburg State.

The defenses used by the Hornets are a 5-2 and 6-3 lineup. "Against the Gorillas last week, the defense won the ball game. It was a great team effort with no individual stand-outs," Meyers stated.

The statistics for the Hornet-Gorilla game are eye-opening. Emporia had a total offense of only 96 yards. The running game netted 67 yards and passing a mere 29 yards.

On the other hand, Pittsburg, ran for 260 yards and passed for 100 yards. Their total offense was 360 yards.

"Winning a game like this (statistic-wise), is a tremendous psychological advantage. This was the first time Emporia beat Pittsburg since 1952. It was a very big win for them," Meyers said.

Make Weaknesses Pay

The OU game plan is to attack the Emporia weaknesses and strive to be a much more aggressive team. "We will aim at making their weaknesses pay," Meyers mentioned.

Two more injuries plague the OU lineup. Harold Lenz, flanker back and punter, injured a knee along with offensive tackle Tom Hutchinson. "Harold is probably our top pass receiver and Tom's absence will deplete our total strength," Meyers said.

Meyers did not anticipate any lineup changes for tomorrow's game.

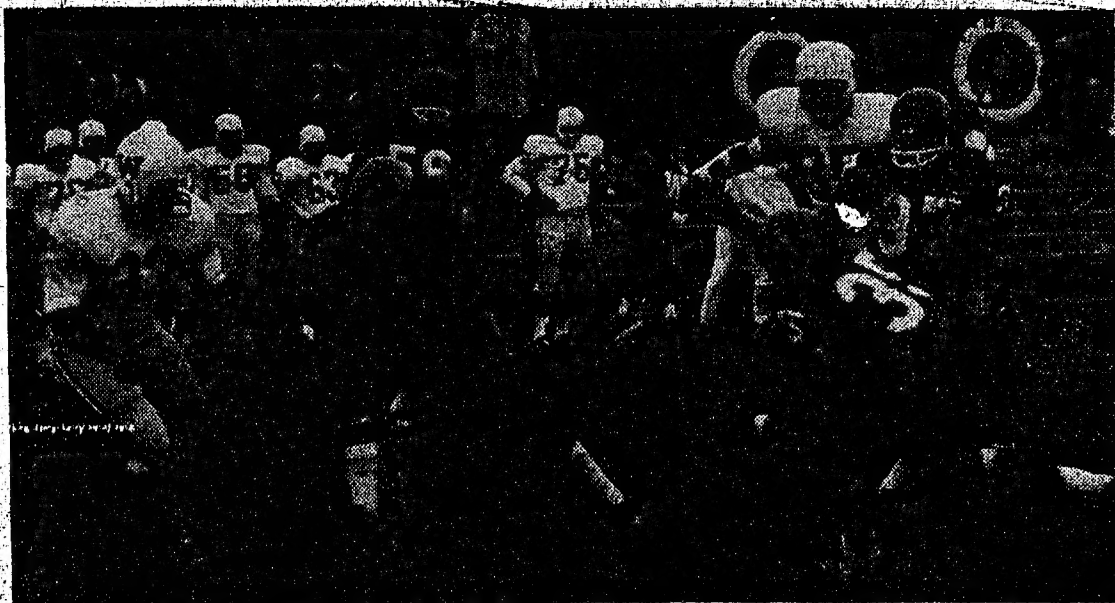

The Team Sets New Record

The Team set a new record of 21:09 for the one-mile team race Friday on the OU track.

The four-man team of John Haney, Bill Orr, Bob Smiley, and Ray Smith led from the outset and increased their lead to a quarter of a mile.

The Pi Kaps were second and Theta Chi third.

Lambda Chi, TKE and Sig Eps placed fourth, fifth and sixth.

Indians Lose To Ichabods By 21-14 Score

Omaha University lost its seventh straight game last Saturday as the Washburn Ichabods pulled off a narrow 21-14 victory in front of 18 hundred Parent's Day fans.

Coupled with Emporia State's win over Pittsburg, the loss placed the Indians last in the Central Intercollegiate Conference standings.

However, despite the score, Omaha fought one of their best battles since Bill Haas took over the quarterback spot from injured Marlin Briscoe.

Indians Shock

The Indians shocked the Ichabods on the opening kick-off when Steve Hoborak picked up a Washburn fumble and raced nine yards into the end-zone with less than ten seconds on the clock.

Washburn fought back, however, and aided by a blocked punt recovered on Omaha's five-yard line the Ichabods managed to tie the score in two plays.

The half ended 7-7, but the Ichabods went ahead late in the third quarter with a determined ground attack sparked by their running backs. An Omaha U. fumble in the opening minute of the fourth period proved fatal as Washburn quarterback J. D. Cleavinger directed his team for 12 plays and the decisive touchdown.

Haas-Sayers Pass Scores

Omaha's second score followed an impressive 67-yard drive with Haas throwing an 11-yard pass to Ron Sayers in the end-zone.

But two key interceptions by Washburn helped contain Omaha.

Haas as time and opportunities ran out.

However, the passing attack of Bill Haas began to shape up in last week's game. Haas completed 12 of 23 passes for 136 yards.

Premiere running back Ron Sayers also added some sparkling plays to the offensive momentum.

Both teams suffered from the loss of players due to injuries, but Omaha was hampered by the loss of two of its leading ground gainers: Fullback Bill Dodd out with a sprained ankle, and Halfback Pat Smagacz with a groin injury.

Rick Davis replaced Sayers in the defensive backfield, and Steve Hoborak substituted for Smagacz.

OU Harriers Outdistance Dana; Carey First In Four-Mile Race

OU harriers notched their second victory of the season. The Indians dropped Dana, 18-37 in a double dual meet at Nebraska Wesleyan.

Against Dana, the Indians placed 1-2-4-5-6 as Richard Carey clocked 22:18 over the four mile course in pacing the long distance squad.

Gordon Sweeney ran second to Carey with a 23:17 clocking. Larry Weller, Jim McMahon and Dave Oman rounded the OU scoring.

In the other half of the double meet the Indians were edged by Nebraska Wesleyan 20-39.

Overall in the meet, Richard Carey was the top Indian harrier. Jim Comstock of Wesleyan, copped meet honors, but was almost overtaken by Carey. Comstock won individual honors with a time of 22:03, in edging Carey by a mere 15 seconds.

Tomorrow at 11 a.m. the Indians will be at Kearney for the AAU championships. Most Nebraska colleges will be at the meet.

Peru's Tim Hendricks should be the favorite to cop meet honors. When Hendricks ran against OU, he breezed across the finish line without any serious competition.

Kearney, Peru and Wayne should be the teams vying for meet honors.

By Rudy Smith

A strong-armed 162-pound freshman who likes to run with the football is this week's intramural player of the week.

Bill Butler, a 5'10", 20-year-old Lambda Chi pledge reaped the honor for his heroic play against TKE last week and Pi Kaps Monday.

He threw for all his teams three touchdowns in the 23-0 shellacking of TKE.

Bill Rambles for TD

Against the Pi Kaps, Bill accounted for nearly all of his teams ground and aerial yardage and for the only TD in the game with a 40-yard jaunt early in the game to give Lambda Chi a victory over Pi Kaps.

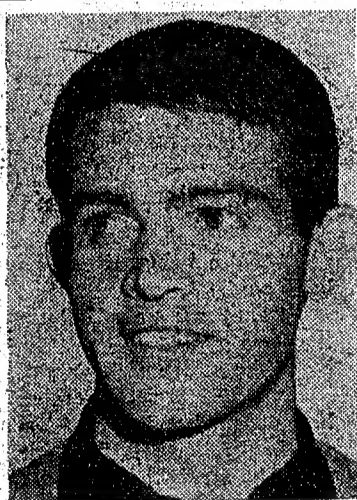

A converted fullback, Butler shares the quarterback duties with Randy Owens.

High School Letterman

Bill lettered four years in football, track and basketball while attending Abingdon High School in Abingdon, Ill. where he was All-Western Illinois as a quarterback and honorable mention all-state as a basketball guard.

He is a math and history major which he hopes will give him some background in his pursuit of his goal of becoming an Oceanographer.

In addition to working 28 hours a week, being a full-time student and participating in intramural athletics Bill likes being with the "72 good guys of Lambda Chi."

8 Lettermen Return To Boost Wrestling

By Dan Parker

A challenging schedule, and eight returning lettermen face Don Benning's fourth season as wrestling coach.

Seeking improvement on the 8-7 record of last year, the lettermen are expected to carry the lead for the Indians.

These men are Curlee Alexander, 115 pounds; Tom Bell, 123 pounds; Richard Coleman, 130 pounds; and Dick Hall, 123 pounds. Others are Kinze Williams, 123 pounds; Reggie Williams, 160 pounds; Tom Murtaugh, 137 pounds; and Tom Maides, heavy-weight.

Omaha U placed second last year in the NAIA District 11 tournament. The district champions, Alexander, K. Williams, R. Williams, and Maides, are back this year. Alexander placed fourth in the NAIA nationals.

Maides nipped R. Williams by one point as OU's top grappler last season.

"Without practice I cannot tell in what weight classes our power will be, but I have a feeling we will be strong in the middle weights," Benning said.

Ken Netwig was the only grappler lost by graduation. Tom Ruffino, sophomore transfer from Kansas State, will replace Netwig at 145 pounds. Tom is a former state champion from Omaha's South.

Another sophomore, Tom Murtaugh, became ineligible second semester of last year. While wrestling varsity for one semester he compiled a 7-2 record. "I'm expecting big things from Tom," Benning said.

The freshmen crop has several good wrestlers with fine high school records. Wendell Hankanson is an Omaha Benson product. He will wrestle 160-167 pounds and was a high school champion. Another Benson boy, Nick Modrcin, placed second in the state meet last year. Nick will wrestle at 180 pounds this year.

Jim Barrington was a state champion at Omaha South. Jim's foes will meet him at 177-pound weight class. Roy Washington was a high school champ from Rochester, New York. Washington will grapple at 152 pounds.

Beaming at his fine group of freshmen, Benning is expecting these men to be fine college wrestlers.

The tough schedule of the Indians is spiced with a number of good teams. St. Cloud State in Minnesota placed fourth in the NAIA last year. Fort Hays took sixth place in the NAIA. Minot State copped ninth in the national tournament.

Benning said Nebraska University will be "favorably tough", along with Northwest Missouri. Northwest Missouri has lost only one dual meet in 44 matches, that loss at the hands of Fort Hays. Northern Illinois placed high on the NCAA small college tourney.

"The outlook for the year should be one of improvement but also inexperience," Benning concluded.

Lambda Chis Win 7-0; East Coast Wins 10-0

By Rudy Smith

We want a touchdown! We want a touchdown! Go little Pikes, go, and go-go-go-go-go were a few of the spirited chants heard as the Pi Kaps challenged Lambda Chi to a football duel and a duel it was.

Like youthful cavaliers, the fired-up blackshirts of Lambda Chi accepted the challenge and answered their challenger with a quick touchdown.

Lambda Chi took the opening kick-off and marched to the greener pastures of the end zone, with Bill Butler sprinting the final 40 yards after taking a pitch-out from Randy Owens. Greg Classen converted for a 7-0 Lambda Chi lead.

Temper Flare

Later on in the first half two-way performer Bill Butler recovered a Pi Kap fumble to stop their scoring threat at the 50-yard line.

The game, one of the wildest and most exciting of the season, was witnessed by more than 150 persons who saw five potential rhubarbs flare up in the first half.

Amid the light sprinkles and spotted sunshine, the Blackshirts continued to roll in the second half despite the excellent coverage given their receivers by the Pi Kap secondary.

Butler once again came to the rescue as Lambda Chi had their backs to the wall at their own two-yard line.

Satellites Defeated

Butler took a pitch-out from Owens and raced 98 yards to score only to have it nullified by a clipping penalty.

As the cannon roared ending the game, Lambda Chi was mobbed at mid-field where they joyously sang their victory song.

Tom Balkovich was too much for the League II-leading Satellites in the second game of the double-header Monday.

Versatile Tom drew first blood as he kicked a 15-yard field goal for the East Coast after their initial drive was halted early in the game.

Before the half came to a close Balkovich was on the receiving end of a 40-yard pass-play for six points. The extra point try was good for a 10-0 lead over the Satellites at the half.

In the second half the East Coast completely dominated play and the once invincible Satellites finally came down to earth as they absorbed their first defeat of the season.

The Packers won their first game of the season last Wednesday by downing Theta Chi 12-6.

A film pertaining to the Engineering field will be shown. All Industrial Engineering majors are invited.

Test Tube Talks

Dr. D. N. Marquardt, chemistry department head, and Dr. Walter Linstromberg, professor of organic chemistry, recently attended The Midwest Regional Meeting of the American Chemical Society in Lawrence, Kansas.

The meeting was held last Thursday and Friday at the University of Kansas.

Discussed were recent advances of modern chemistry. Teaching techniques, exhibits of the most up to date chemistry equipment and technical instruments for academic use were also displayed.

They hope to learn more about these modern methods and their significance to be applied to OU's future chemistry program.

Cross Over The Bridge

Anyone interested in playing bridge should sign up at the Student Center Information Desk. Charles Murphy is organizing the new group.

Op, Pop Or Slop?

A panel discussion of the trends in contemporary painting moderated by Eugene Kingman of the Joslyn Art Museum is being offered the students of Omaha University and the citizens of Omaha on Monday at 8:30 p.m. in the Ad Auditorium.

Some of the ideas that will be discussed in the hour-long discussion will be "what exists in contemporary art, its quality" and "artistic value judgments."

Leading the discussion will be Herbert Katzman, Norman Geske and James Sweeney. Slides of paintings will be used to illustrate and clarify points made in the discussion.

That's Snow Biz

The Ski Club has made many plans for this year, but they depend on the weather.

Along with the regular plans for trips to the Crescent Ski Hills, the club hopes to hold a ski race.

A meeting will be held Thursday, Nov. 17 where details on the annual trip to Colorado will be announced.

Interested students are welcome to attend the meeting.

Six-Week Grades?

Counselors have the six-weeks' grades for freshmen. All freshmen should check with their counselor to check their mid-term grades.

Move Up To Quality

A Student Center committee has been formed to organize all students activities taking place in and out of the Student Center.

"It would give us more programs of better quality," said Fred Ray, director of the Student Center.

Applications will be taken all year with new members being placed on the existing committees. The applications are available at the information desk of the Student Center.

Meeting times will be announced on the bulletin board of Room 250 in the Student Center.

Six committees are formed. They are: recreation, exhibits, special events, house and grounds, films and concerts and lectures.

Rotary Offers Big Wheels

Over 115 seniors attended the Senior Executive Day program held Tuesday in the Student Center Ballroom.

The program featured twenty of Omaha's top business executives holding small seminars around the lunch table.

The mid-day program was sponsored by the Rotary Club of Omaha.

Slate Debate Date

University of Omaha debate units will be competing today and tomorrow at the University of South Dakota Debate Tournament.

OU will have teams competing in "A" debate, "B" debate, Extemporaneous Speaking, Oratory, Oral Interpretation, and Discussion.

Making the trip along with debate coaches Duane Aschenbrenner and John Wanzensreid will be Pat Mullany, Cary Mills, Doreen Moritz, Patti Pease, Larry Shueler, Roger Sutton, John Liebman, Garry Lammers, and Fred Borgers.

AFROTC C AFB

Cadets from OU's 420th AFROTC Detachment joined cadets from the University of Nebraska on a visitation to Vance Air Force Base, Oklahoma.

The cadets left last Wednesday, and observed operations in Flight Training. In addition, they observed the Thunderbirds, the official Air Force flight demonstration team, in action.

Two former OU graduates, Lt. Joe Benson, and Lt. Henry Blair, were at the base for training at the Flight School.

Over 120 Attend UN Day At OU

LeRoy Falk, beard and all, was there dressed in "a desert outfit".

And Charles Wortz, with handle-bar mustache, came with his Japanese smoking jacket.

And so it was at the second annual OU United Nations Day. Held in the Student Center Ballroom, the event drew more than 120.

The Ballroom which went under a vast international renovation, housed some 20 exhibits.

On the entertainment fare were folk songs from France, Russia and Spain. The United States contribution was "Up With People", the songfest battle cry of the shaven crew-cut youth. Also on the entertainment bill was a Japanese dance by four girls dressed in native garb.

OU Buys Scales

Two new electronic scales costing $750 each were recently added to the chemistry department's growing collection of modern technical equipment.

Dr. D. N. Marquardt, chemistry department head, said the new scales are accurate within 5-10 milligrams, (about the weight of your signature on a piece of paper.)

Greek Grind

The members of Tau Kappa Epsilon attended a pizza dinner and exchange at the Alpha Xi Delta house in Lincoln last Sunday.

The pledges of Sigma Kappa pulled off a successful skip, Oct. 19. They captured Delores Hurlburt and Kathy Specht. The skip spot was the Park Avenue Florist Shop and they all met afterwards at La Casa's.

The Sigma Kappas attended their Province Weekend at Iowa State University at Ames. The regional meet consisted of girls from Iowa and Nebraska.

Delta Sigma Pi, international business fraternity, pledged 20 business students for the fall semester. They are: Bruce Bradbury, Steve Bremers, Duane Buerstetta and Al Chamerlain.

Dick Cosgrove, Doug Crammer, Steve Driml, Bill Gaughan, Doug Hall and Tom Hoesle.

Frank Nigro, Tom Petersen, Dennis Solko and Roger Whitney.

Kappa Delta Pi, educational honorary, has initiated 27 members at a tea in the Student Center, October 20.

New members are Dean Carter, Verda Rouch, Judy Agnew, Bonnie Applegate, Jacqueline Bridgewater and James Butler.

Others are Joanne Carlson, Carole Grube, Marjorie Holmquest, Judy Humphrey, Diane Jorgensen, Joyce Kavan, William Larsen, Marcia Martin, Margie Muldoon, Mary Newell, Diane Petersen, Joyce Rishel and Karen Shields.

Also initiated were Mary Smith, David Thorndike, Marcellene Tyler, Ivalyn Van Every, Jo Ellen Weiss, Lois Westfall, Thelma Young and Larry Zwart.

Officers initiating were Ron Bernth, president; Clarice Moeller, vice president; Susan Chapek, secretary and treasurer, Dr. Joseph Dunn.

Last Saturday, several Sig Ep actives and pledges visited Children's Hospital. Dressed in Halloween costumes, they gave masks and favors to about 50 children.

Chi Omega pledged freshman LaRae Kopplit Wednesday.

Lambda Chi Alpha and Alpha Xi Delta will have an exchange at 8:30 tonight in Room 312 of the Student Center. The Highwaymen will play.

Plans are underway for the Beta Upsilon Zeta Epsilon second anniversary Nov. 7. Schedule includes an all-day celebration with a formal dance in the evening.

Linda Jordan, Chi Omega, has been named Tau Kappa Epsilon pledge of the month.

Inter-Pep Club Chooses Three

Inter-pep, the University's cheering squad, has chosen its 1966-67 officers.

Toni Matson is the squad's president, Dianne Dessler, vice president and Cristi Winheim, secretary-treasurer.

The officers were selected at a meeting October 27 by a vote of the members.

Council Wants Junior Member

Any Junior interested in becoming a member of the Inter-collegiate Council must contact Mrs. Engle in the Student Center by Wednesday. The selection will be made by the Student Council.

The Council was started last year and it has members from every college and nursing school in the Omaha area. Its members meet twice monthly.

Greeks Do 'Fair Share' In UCS Drive

Four sororities and five fraternities are doing their "fair share" in the United Community Service fund drive this week.

For each penny donated the candidates will receive one vote for the title of "Cutest Pan" and "Ugliest Man".

The competition, sponsored by Waakiya Senior Women's honorary, will come to an end today at noon when the candidates turn in the contributions.

The winners will be announced today at a dance at 8:30 in the Student Center Ballroom.

The UCS drive is a combination of the major fund drive. Each year OU Greeks help out with the contest.

This year's candidates are Jean Battiatto, Zeta Tau Alpha; Roxi Holmes, Chi Omega; Kathy Specht, Sigma Kappa; Jean Timmerman, Alpha Xi Delta; John Mixan, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Jaey Sedlacek, Pi Kappa Alpha; Ron Wagner, Lambda Chi Alpha; Chuck Will, Tau Kappa Epsilon and Wayne Wotherspoon, Theta Chi.

Twenty-one teams have signed up for intramural basketball and there is room for three more.

The Class Presidents - What Will They Do?

By Sherianne Williams

The student body has elected four men to represent them as class presidents.

Now what?

What does the class president do? What authority does he have? Why did he run in the first place?

"To further the interest of the school as well as my own," said Tom Ridley, president of the Senior Class.

"I enjoyed all of the election because it was a good opportunity to meet people," added Tom.

In addition to the Senior Dance, project and Senior Day, Tom plans to "unify the senior class, both residents and bootstrappers, into a more homogeneous group."

He is a 22-year-old speech major and a member of Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity.

Jim Sandoz is a 20-year-old marketing major.

The reason he gave for seeking the office was simple. His fraternity, Pi Kappa Alpha, decided he would be best.

As Junior class president, Jim will be in charge of the Junior Prom. That's as far as his plans go.

"I plan to bring back the Sophomore Dance," said 19-year-old Tom Helligso, president of the Sophomore Class.

"I was also chosen by my fraternity, Pi Kappa Alpha, but I liked meeting all of the new people," commented Tom.

"Being president of the Freshman Class is strictly an honorary position," said Ken Krichbaum. "I decided that I would like to be more active in school affairs."

"It also was a great opportunity to meet freshmen." Eighteen-year-old Ken is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Economic Problems At OU Now On Students' Shoulders

By John Kalgert

"Omaha University is not fulfilling the obligation to the community envisioned by its founders."

According to Harold D. Keefover, University Comptroller, a good many otherwise qualified students could not attend OU this semester because of increased tuition.

Keefover said the founder's idea of a municipal university for Omaha would have provided low-cost education for city residents who could not afford to go away to school. In too many cases, he feels, the school has unavoidably priced deserving students either out of school entirely, or into other schools.

There are many reasons for increased tuition, most of them economic, and all of them unavoidable.

For those who need reminding, resident per hour costs were raised to $18 this semester, tripling 1959 per-hour costs.

Omaha University is forbidden by law to go into debt except by the sale of revenue bonds and there are only two areas that currently qualify under that category. Bonds could be sold on the revenue from only Student Center operations or parking.

Both are acknowledged profit producers. But revenue from both is segregated from the general fund.

The general fund is that pool of cash from which such expenses as salaries and general operating expenses are paid.

For the current fiscal year, which includes the past summer session, this and next semester, 5.6 million dollars has been budgeted to pay bills.

Understandably, 5.6 million dollars in revenue has also been budgeted. The University's method is to first determine how much money will be needed and then to figure out where it will come from.

Taxes, derived from the University mill levy on Omaha real estate, are estimated to provide 1.3 million. This may be increased somewhat if the two-mill levy survives the courts, but this cannot be depended upon.

Taxes, derived from the University mill levy on Omaha real estate. Rental of property and interest on investments bring in an additional three percent.

That leaves 74 percent, or 4.2 million dollars that must come out of student pockets in the form of tuition and fees.

There is no other source of funds. The school receives no federal or state monies for general operations.

Keefover emphasized that the additional load would not have fallen on the students had the voters passed a mill levy hike. However, in April of 1963 and again in April of this year the University's bid for more tax money was defeated.

It is the general consensus of the OU administration that tuition is now as high as it can possibly go under the current economic situation. But more money is desperately needed.

Faculty Stalls Ease Problem

rest of our lives," Traywick stated.

The faculty lot addition will cost $35,000 for 47 parking stalls. The proportionally higher cost will be due to extensive excavating and landscaping.

Dr. Traywick noted that many of the faculty stalls on the west part of campus will be changed to student use.

Rachford said 155 faculty members will be assigned to the 102-stall Lot A under the assumption that not all of the faculty will be on campus at the same time. "As you can see, the faculty has its own parking problem," he added.

In effect, the students will gain a net total of 600 new parking spaces. Added to the present 1,300, the new total of 1,900 will be almost half again as many parking spaces on campus.

Pat and Larry ... a match for Oxford

OU Competes With Her Majesty's Duo

By Bill DuVall

The Queen's own Oxford University debate team was on campus Wednesday to do battle with OU.

The subject of the debate, not being the Stamp Act which was a previous contest, was: That access to higher education is a right of man.

Her Majesty's duo of Jeremy Beoloff and Doug Hogg presented their traditional English debate style and scuffled with OU's savages; Pat Mulaney and Larry Schueler.

The debate, taking place in the colonies (Conference Center Auditorium) was based on the English style; each speaker expounding for 10 minutes, then the audience partaking for an additional 20 minutes and finally a four minute summary by each debater.

The audience, in excess of 100, judged the joust on a basis of which team persuaded them the most, and by all appearances the tournament was even, thereby elevating the calibre of OU debate.

Oxford imported their droll, articulate and stiff-upper-lip debating style, qualities which definitely lack in the American counterpart.

Beoloff and Hogg boasted impressive credentials, both being past presidents of the Oxford Union, a 5,000 member debating society at Oxford.

OU Presenting 'Major Barbara'

Shavian wit cuts like a crusader's sword at the morality of liberalism in George Bernard Shaw's Major Barbara.

The satirical play began its three-night run last night at the University of Omaha Theatre.

Tickets are still on sale for the 8:30 performances tonight and tomorrow.

The tickets are $1.50 and may be reserved by calling 553-4700 (ext. 335) or at the Administration box office from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Students and faculty members are admitted by activity card.

Festival Fun

Omaha University's Fine Arts Festival swung into a week-long presentation of drama, literature, art and music last night with the first performance of "Major Barbara" in the University Theatre.

During the next few days OU students have the opportunity to attend programs featuring Agnes Moorehead, outstanding international actress; Leslie Fiedler, literary critic and author; Ruth Slenczynska, piano soloist; and singers Martha Schlamme and Will Holt.

King Of Dance

Bruce King, master choreographer and teacher, will present Dance Workshops tomorrow at 10 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. in the Student Center Ballroom.

Graduated from the University of California at Berkeley, with an M.A. from New York University, King has been featured in summer musicals, as a member of the Merce Cunningham Company, and once toured West Germany with a jazz group.
